Learning Communities: What's in it for Me?

Tuesday, August 30, 12:30-1:45 PM

Kennesaw Campus, SO 5074

Facilitators:

Carmen Skaggs, Associate Dean for Academic Support, CHSS

Cathy Bradford, Director of Learning Communities

Hillary Steiner, Associate Director of Learning Communities

Interested in exploring the idea of teaching in a learning community?
This workshop is for you! As a high-impact practice, learning communities benefit students in multiple ways. But did you know they also benefit faculty?

What's in it for you, you ask?

- ✚ An opportunity to get to know a small group of incoming students
- ✚ A chance to incorporate a theme into your course that reflects your interests
- ✚ A way to demonstrate "scholarly teaching," as outlined in the faculty handbook
- ✚ Connections with other faculty members outside your field
- ✚ Unique faculty development opportunities
- ✚ Funding for creative teaching ideas
- ✚ Support for the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning and much more!

Come learn more about how you can get involved with KSU's nationally recognized Learning Communities Program. A light lunch will be served.
