

CHSS FACULTY DEVELOPMENT SERIES PRESENTS:

Assessing student learning in your course: Linking to course and program outcomes

In this workshop you will learn critical steps to design assessment into your classes, addressing both course and program outcomes. We will discuss how to design both direct and indirect measures of student learning, how to collect useful data on student performance with rubrics or other scoring systems, and techniques to summarize data for the purpose of reporting. We will also facilitate a conversation to help drive future communication about assessment within the programs and departments/schools in your college from a point of common understanding.
